How your pledges will help Somerset Home's Arts and Recreation Program

Arts education and recreation activities are important to the growth and development of all children. For Somerset Home's youth, self-expression and physical activity is critical to helping them deal with the trauma in their lives.

Our arts/recreation program introduces youth to visual and performing arts; an important outlet for feelings of anger, abandonment, frustration and loss. Activities include trips to the theatre, skating, skiing, swimming, horseback riding, hiking, boxing and many other activities these homeless teens and young adults may never have the chance to participate in without your support.

Runaways aren't bad kids; they are kids in a bad situation. They've been abused, neglected or abandoned. They come from every neighborhood - including your neighborhood - rich or poor, suburban, rural or urban. They represent every race and religion. They are not running to something, but away from something - away from abuse or family conflict.
